Portfolio performance

For the month of March 2021, the Strategic Income Fund achieved a 0.18% return for the Class A units. Projecting the monthly return for the next 12 months would provide an annualised return of 2.12% after fees. Returns were supported by another positive month in credit markets.

March saw stability return to credit markets after a volatile February. Optimism grew over the month with better than expected economic data releases, positive news on vaccination programs and a further commitment from global central banks on supportive monetary policy. In addition to these developments, the Biden administration announced another major stimulus package in the US focussed on infrastructure spending.

In Australia, domestic economic data releases were strong with Gross Domestic Product (GDP) in the fourth quarter of 2020 being stronger than expected at 3.1% year on year. Employment data was positive as the unemployment rate dropped from 6.3% to 5.8% driven by a rebound in production and surge in commodity prices. The strong labour market, improving fiscal position and buoyant housing market have lifted enthusiasm through the month.

Australian credit market spread (the difference between the yield on credit assets and risk-free assets) retraced the widening moves in February delivering a positive month across most credit products. The primary market saw increased activity and spreads experienced an overall improvement through March.

The Fund's focus remains on high quality investments with minimal volatility. The Fund has 33% in cash instruments, 31% in Floating Rate Notes (FRN) and 36% in highly rated securitised assets. Approximately 73% of non-cash assets are rated AA- or higher.
