Portfolio performance

For the month of November 2020, the Strategic Income Fund achieved a 0.23% return for the Class A units. Projecting the monthly return for the next 12 months would provide an annualised return of 2.76% after fees. Returns were supported by another positive month in credit income markets.

November was a historic month in global share markets with many indices posting their biggest monthly percentage gains in decades. The market was to be dominated by the result of the US election and the development of multiple Covid-19 vaccines. US markets rallied over the month with the S&P500 (a market capitalisation weighted index of the 500 largest US publicly traded companies) rising 10.8%. Despite European countries being forced into new lockdowns with case numbers rising, the UK FTSE increased 12.4% in November and the German Dax rose 15.0%. In Australia, equities performed strongly with the ASX200 gaining 10% in November, its best monthly performance since March 1988.

In November, the RBA reduced the cash rate from 0.25% to 0.10%. The RBA also reduced the Yield Curve Control (YCC) bond buying target and the Term Funding Facility (TFF) drawdown rate from 0.25% to 0.10%. The rate cuts were in line with market expectations.

Asset allocation

In credit markets, the difference between the yield on credit assets and risk-free assets (Credit Spread) rallied tighter as markets responded positively to the reopening of Victoria, the US election and Covid-19 vaccines. As a result, corporates outperformed government bonds during the month.

The Fund's focus remains on high quality investments with minimal volatility. The Fund has 35.0% in cash instruments, 29.0% in Floating Rate Notes (FRN) and 36.0% in highly rated securitised assets. Approximately 75.0% of non-cash assets are rated AA- or higher.
