Portfolio performance

February saw another constructive month in fixed income and equity markets as risk on sentiment dominated. For the month of February 2021, the Strategic Income Fund achieved a 0.20% return for the Class B units (2.43% pa).

February was a volatile month for global equities as a host of factors appeared to influence markets. Equities began the month strongly on the back of US reporting season and progress towards a new stimulus package. However, the sharp rise in global bond yields later in the month offset some of these gains as markets recalibrated its inflation outlook, prompting concerns that central banks may increase interest rates sooner than expected.

US markets were up over the month with the S&P500 rising 2.6%. European markets experienced similar gains with the UK FTSE up 1.2% in February and the German Dax gaining 2.6%. In Australia, equities underperformed with the ASX200 posting a modest 1.0% gain over the month.

In credit markets, spreads contracted over the month as investor risk appetite continued to improve. As a result, corporates outperformed government bonds during the month.

The Fund manager remains cautious and focussed on high quality investments that reduce the volatility of the Fund during market events. Approximately 33% of the portfolio is in cash instruments, 31% in bank and corporate Floating Rate Notes and 36% is in highly rated securitised instruments. There are no unrated or subordinated assets in the Fund and approximately 73% of non-cash assets are rated AA- or higher.
