Portfolio performance

For the month of October 2021, the Strategic Income Fund achieved a -0.13% return after fees for the Class B units. Over the past 12 months the Fund returned 1.27% after fees. Since inception the Class B units have returned an average of 3.22% per annum.

The third quarter reporting season boosted sentiment in October with more than 80% of companies beating estimates. Risk markets rebounded on the surprise recovering the lost ground from the prior month. Significant headwinds remain omnipresent in markets as monetary policy, inflationary pressures and supply chain issues dampen economic growth.

There was a firmer tone to news flow over the month that subsided some of the events in September that led to weaker markets. Russian gas supplies flowed into Europe calming investor nerves on the developing energy crisis in the Eurozone and China. Constructive discussions and progress were made on lifting the US debt ceiling. Economic data releases were lower than expected with US growth and consumer spending impacted by rising cases of Covid through the middle of the calendar year. The services sector was the main drag. US inflation remains elevated with a 4.0% rise over the last year recorded in October's print. The US Federal Reserve calmed investors fears of immediate rate rises indicating that they were unlikely to raise rates until the second half of 2022.

Asset allocation

Domestically, the Australian credit market had its own struggles with further widening pressure on financial credit spreads and longer dated corporates. Investors are sitting on the sidelines waiting on an increase in new supply. The expectation is that new supply will apply pressure on credit spreads. Additionally, interest rate markets experienced heightened volatility over the month with inflation fears adding a defensive tone. Overall liquidity reduced, sparking a "risk off" move broadly in the Australian credit market.

The Fund manager remains cautious and focussed on high quality investments. At the end of October, approximately 26.3% of the portfolio is in cash instruments, 38.3% in bank and corporate Floating Rate Notes and 35.4% is in highly rated securitised instruments. There are no unrated assets in the Fund and approximately 58.7% of non-cash assets are rated AA- or higher.
