Occupational Duties Questionnaire & Smoker Declaration

Please PRINT your answers within the boxes in CAPITAL LETTERS using a BLACK or BLUE pen. Mark answer boxes with an [X].

Your duty of disclosure to the insurer, TAL Life Limited ABN 70 050 109 450 AFSL 237848 (TAL), is set out below.

1. Your duty of disclosure

Before you enter into a life insurance contract, you have a duty to tell the insurer anything that you know, or could reasonably be expected to know, that may affect their decision to insure you and on what terms.

You have this duty until the insurer agrees to insure you.

You have the same duty before you extend, vary or reinstate the contract.

You do not need to tell the insurer anything that:

- reduces the risk they insure you for: or
- is common knowledge: or
- they know or should know as an insurer; or
- they waive your duty to tell them about.

If you do not tell the insurer something

If the insurance is for the life of another person and that person does not tell the insurer everything they should have, this may be treated as a failure by you to tell the insurer something that you must tell the insurer.

In exercising the following rights, the insurer may consider whether different types of cover can constitute separate contracts of life insurance. If they do, they may apply the following rights separately to each type of cover.

If you do not tell the insurer anything you are required to, and they would not have insured you if you had told them, they may avoid the contract within 3 years of entering into it.

If the insurer chooses not to avoid the contract, they may, at any time, reduce the amount you have been insured for. This would be worked out using a formula that takes into account the premium that would have been payable if you had told them everything you should have. However, if the contract has a surrender value, or provides cover on death, the insurer may only exercise this right within 3 years of entering into the contract.

If the insurer chooses not to avoid the contract or reduce the amount you have been insured for, they may, at any time, vary the contract in a way that places them in the same position they would have been in if you had told them everything you should have. However, this right does not apply if the contract has a surrender value or provides cover on death.

If your failure to tell the insurer is fraudulent, they may refuse to pay a claim and treat the contract as if it never existed.

Note: A false declaration will result in TAL reducing the sum insured payable to the level that the premium paid should have purchased had the declaration been made correctly, ie you or your family could receive a payment of less than half the expected amount if you do not comply with your legal duty of disclosure as explained below.

4. Privacy statement

Privacy laws protect your privacy. The way in which Sandhurst and TAL collect, use, disclose and handle your information is described in the Sandhurst and TAL's Privacy Policies. Please be aware that the Duty of Disclosure explained in the current Bendigo SmartStart Super Insurance Guide and in Section 1 of this declaration form applies to the information you give in this form. If you fail to comply with this duty you may be in breach of it. The consequences of this are explained in this form. Sandhurst and TAL may collect and use or disclose your personal information (including health and sensitive information) to assess, verify and process your application and any claim made.

Sandhurst and TAL may collect or disclose information relating to you or your application or any claim you may make to or from each other and a range of services including: financial advisers, reinsurers, superannuation trustees, past or present medical practitioners, health professionals, hospitals, government department(s) which retain health records or as part of our regulatory requirements, personal accountants or current or former employers or lawyers, claim investigators and other third party service providers. If this information is not provided, your application for insurance or an insurance claim may not be processed. You have a right to access any personal information held about you unless Sandhurst or TAL is legally entitled to deny access.

If you have provided Sandhurst and TAL with information about another person, you undertake to advise them that:

- Sandhurst and TAL collect hold and use the personal information for the purpose set out in Sandhurst's and TAL's privacy statement
- their personal information may be disclosed to a third party
- they may access or correct any personal information held about them.

If you want to know more about Sandhurst's or TAL's approach to privacy, please contact Sandhurst on 1800 033 426 or TAL on 1300 209 088.
